Louis Russell

Louis Russell was born in France.
May 29, 1786, d June 29, 1793, in Marblehead. M. Dec. 26, 1797. Mary Savages, b. July 26, 1704, d May 17, 1775
66. 35. 4 x 10. 49. LN, in Episcopal Church.

As stated by his grandson William Andrews Richardson, in a paper left by him in order that the future generations might know the origin of the family, Louis came to America in 1717. Extract from paper says: "The family were Protestants and surrounded by Catholics. When a school boy of 17 Louis uttered some words against the Pope. His family and friends became alarmed and sought some way to get him out of the coun-ry, as quickly as possible. First, thought of sending him to relatives in England, but concluded he would not be safe there, and a ship being ready to start for America, they put him on board, and he came to Boston, but finally went to Marblehead where there were many French people. He married and died there. He never returned to France though he once thought of doing so when 55 or more, but his wife objected.

Extract from Salem Gazette, June 28, 1793. Died in Marblehead, Louis Russell, in 93 year of her age. He was one of the refugees, who in the beginning of the present century fled from France for their attachment to the Protestant religion, and he has ever supported a worthy and unblemished reputation.

 Tradition of Louis Russell, from a paper in possession of Mrs. B. M. Newbury.

"The family were of high rank and in a time of trouble, with Catholics, they being Protestants started to leave France.

The Capt. of the ship was to wait for all who had engaged passage, it came on board. The father of Louis Russell left the ship to secure some property, not returning presently, the ship, against the protests of all on board, went ashore to find her husband, leaving baby Louis, then alone in charge of a sailor. The Capt. sailed without waiting for the crew, and they were never heard from again. The baby Louis and Left are the ship with crew who died, before reaching port. He was cared for by passengers, and on his arrival at (Boston) went to some people in Marblehead.

It is clothing, now rich and valuable, worn by 2 parents.
When some time after an effort was made to identify him by the marks, his clothing may have been spirited away.

When tracks were not here in 1824, he called after a tradition of the time of Louis Christine, told his name and address to get the property back. But the Rev. Mr. [name] of the church would find anything to lose it and the heir.

Louis was theoretically & practically a Temperance man & retained his faculties to the last. Died in 93d year. Beloved by all. In a capable of doing a wrong act. He lived in what is now Grocher Park, Md. and is probably buried under the Episcopalian church where he was married, as was a custom at that time.

He refused to say anything about his family except that "they all died suddenly one day." He had no relatives in this country. There were others of the same name in Marblehead no way related.

A lady riding in M-h-d. sometime ago met an old gent. and asked if he knew the family. "Yes indeed," was the reply, "the daughters were all very handsome, and every one fit for a duchess. You look just like them. It was a pretty sight to see the 8 daughters coming out of church all dressed in white, and the sons with cocked hats under their arms for fear of disturbing their powdered wigs, waiting for them at the ship." The lady referred above, was a descendant of Capt. Lewis.

She was in Indiana 32 years, a woman of rare ability, who won the love and respect of all who met her. She was engaged up to the time of her death in translating the Bible into the language of the Natives. She spoke French like a native, besides reading several other languages. While in a library with her one day, she read to the several Indian peoples from the original. She was very cheerful in her manner, theeturwards in adversity, trials and disappointments in her work, but was always cheerful, looking on the bright side. She did much for the poor women of Indiana.
Rev. Robert Hoskins was born in Dennis-town, Vt. He was a missionary of the Methodist Church in Indiana. 36 years. Graduated from Williams College in 1856, and after a year in Union Theological Seminary N.Y. City. Started for India 1867.
In 1872 received the degree D.D. from Boston University. He was one of the most successful missionaries of his denomination.
Besides being a teacher & teacher, he was well versed in medicine, having taken a course in the University School of Medicine.
An important part of his work was the manual training school he started in Chennai, after his return to India 1869.
Last time. He taught hundreds of young men to be self supporting by the use of carpenting tools. The furniture made by his students was in constant demand by Englishmen, who took the product back to England, to show what the British subjects in India could do.
He was well known in New England, having preached in many of its pulpits on missionary topics.
He supplied the pulpit of the Laffeyette at church in Salem, Mass. during the absence of the pastor Rev. Dillon Bronson.

Charlotte Caroline of Mary Louis & John Russell & July 11, 1815, in Marblehead and lived there 13 years. Her father was cashier of M. & A.
Bank and resided in the Lee Mansion.
She remembered distinctly Lafayette's visit to M. & A. and his entertainment in the house.
His great interest in the family, because Mrs.
Russell was a daughter of his old friend Louis Russell. Charlotte A. Russell began to teach when 15 years old, and followed her prof until she was 75. She began to teach in the family of Jonathan Phillips of Swamp scott, remaining there till the three daugh ters were young women. Then she went to an English family in Montreal, and with them to Jamaica, where she lived about 20 years. This laid the foundation of her Spanish studies, of which she was so fond.
On her return from Jamaica she became Governess in the family of Gen Dupont of Wilmington, Del, and lived there till she gave up her work at the age of 75. That she held the affection and esteem of her employers and pupils was shown in their constant and thoughtful attention to her in her old age.
Her tastes were literary and she read with ease Spanish, French and German, keeping up her interest in them until the close of life. She used to tell the following story in connection with the visit of Lafayette to her home in 1824. Coming in to the house one day, the mother told the children, they must be very quiet, as a great man, who had come a long distance over the ocean, was there and wished to rest awhile.
Being told he was in the mother's chamber, they made a push up stairs and Surst into the room, anxious to see what such a great man would look like. The Gen wished some water to drink and the children were told to get it.
The two gentlemen went to pump for it.
Mrs. Abigail Basset-Johnson cooked the pie for the dinner given the Gen. in the Lenox Hotel and also helped decorate for the dinner given there in Boston. She was the dau. of Capt. Edmund & Abigail Russell Lewis. Mrs. Elizabeth Davitt Blaney was present (a little girl then) and as she passed the Gen. he took her in his arms and kissed her.

her mother, sister-grandmother, & grandmother Molly Striker to Damariscotta during the war of 1812, to be away from M.-d. where English vessels came in and made the old ladies very nervous, and frightened. She remembered the return to M.-d. by the illumination in honor of peace. She helped put out the candle in the old Lee mansion, where Her aunt Polly Lewis Russell lived. Her husband was cashier of the bank there. The tavern where her uncle Bill lived of John & Miriam Roads Russell was next the Grand Bank & very near the old homestead where she and her mother was brought up, and where uncle Jed (Edmund Lewis) was born. At one time, her mother Mrs. Lewis kept a private school. She taught Russell's muskets before she bought a great deal of property with them as they always plenty. Lafayette Lafayette Ado told John of Louis they could have their property in France if they would come to France for it, but he did not go. When Lafayette came to N. Y. in 1825 John was dead but he asked all his descendants, Mrs. Polly Russell. Had them go to the Penitentiary and pay in recompense for him. Polly Strickar or Story. she was the wife of John Russell. She had one daughter who died at 18.
